

Beem Credit Union welcomes Dave Colic as Chief Technology Officer

January 10, 2024

British Columbia – Beem Credit Union is pleased to welcome Dave Colic, an experienced executive leader, as Chief Technology Officer (CTO). Now that the credit union serves members across the province, leveraging technology to blend digital ease with human connection will be a key focus for Beem as the credit union empowers members to achieve financial wellness.

“Dave has an impressive track record of technology and data transformations which will be invaluable in our goal to build a flexible and responsive ecosystem of technology partners to deliver exceptional member experiences across every point of interaction,” says Brian Harris, CEO of Beem. “Dave’s focus on member needs and transparent communication style will be a fantastic addition to our leadership team,” adds Harris.

In addition to a wealth of experience in the technology space, Dave brings hands on merger experience and has worked collaboratively across organizations to support seamless integrations.

“I’m extremely excited to join a talented and passionate team and organization that embraces change and challenges the norm to deliver technology solutions,” says Colic. “The financial services industry continues to transform and technology can serve as a powerful connector.”

Currently living in Toronto, Dave, his wife and three young daughters are excited to make the move to Beautiful British Columbia in 2024.

Beem Credit Union opened its doors as a province-wide credit union on January 1, 2024 with the merger of Gulf & Fraser* and Interior Savings and is led by CEO, Brian Harris.

About

Beem Credit Union, founded by Gulf & Fraser and Interior Savings, is the second largest provincially regulated credit union in BC with approximately $10 billion in total assets under administration. 1,000 Beem employees will work to serve over 160,000 members who live and work across the province.
